

DENNEBOS FLOORING

The colours of nature

Wood means life.

Life means diversity.

Dennebos wooden floors are nature in its purest form. And just as no tree grows quite like any other, every floor is a one-of-a-kind. Every floor, every board, completely unique.

No catalogue in the world could show the real extent of this natural diversity. So please see these photographs as inspiration for the floors that could one day enrich your home. Take pleasure in their individuality, in the broad spectrum of shades and textures you will see in your own personal Dennebos floor.

N.07

A herringbone pattern is the perfect way to demonstrate how beautifully different shades of oak harmonise with one another.

N.02

Blending the different natural wood shades together as you lay your floor creates a harmonious overall look.

N.02

Every Dennebos floor features an astounding variety of colours and textures. It's like having a living, breathing piece of nature in your home. A floor for people with character.

dark

With oak wood, and smoked and leached surfaces in particular, colouring will typically vary from board to board due to the natural levels of tannins in the wood. But by skilfully laying the right blend of different coloured boards, you can create the harmonious appearance you're looking for.

light

Exposure to light will balance out even the more obvious of colour variations, giving the floor a beautiful, warm hue.

medium

R.03

Oak is by nature a wood with a beautiful range of colour nuances, and smoking the boards further intensifies this diversity.
